Two Pulitzer Prize Winners

PLACER MINING TO FORE IN OLD FIELD

By J. W. MARCHBANK
Pioneer in Frontier Mining Work

Promise is high of the return of placer days to the Cariboo. Known principally in late years by reason of the large output of quartz mines in the well established district up north recent events tend to an optimistic outlook for the placer method of getting the yellow metal.

Preliminary prospecting work has satisfied and influential group that it is on the ancient channel of Antler Creek. That was last season. This season the men in the group are preparing for a summer of intensive prospecting. An airplane placer drill recently arrived at Barkerville and by use of a tractor for breaking trail to the property it was possible to get the drill in and set up ready to start the first hole to bedrock.

It will be recalled that millions in gold went over the old Cariboo Trail, which first made British Columbia a prosperous commonwealth.

Interesting information about the Alaskan-Yukon link of the Pan-Ameican Highway is given in an article by Charles F. A. Mann, of Tacoma ,in the New York Times. The writer says the highway really began in 1859, when Queen Victoria sent engineers to build a road just north of Vancouver in the Fraser River Canyon. It is now a well-graveled thoroughfare, extending for 830 miles to Hazelton. A fair dirt road extends to Kispiox, home of the totem pole Indians, about twenty miles north of Hazelton. The oad is known as the Cariboo Trail and, as the writer states, it is used annually by thousands of motorists from the United States and Canada.

Progress since last summer is recapitulated as follows:

A bill introduced by Delegate Anthony Dimond of Alaska in the House of Representatives asking for $100,000 to be given President Roosevelt with power to negotiate with Canada in regard to the construction of the highway. Last February, as is well known, the Senate passed the bill of Senator McNary, of Oregon, appropriating $2,100,000 to get the project under way. The bill provides that $100,000 be spent in negotiation with Canada and preliminary location of the road, and $2,000,000 for America's share of actual construction.

Appoximately 700,000 square miles would be affected by the new road, with agricultural lands, big game areas, mining lands, grazing lands, forest and vast areas ideal for tourists becoming available.

In a recent address, George Murray, newspaper publisher and member of British Columbia Parliament, said that the people of his province are enthusiastically in favor of the completion of the highway. He called attention to the resolution passed by the British Columbia Parliament for the highway. The lawmaker emphasized the fact that the northern province must have depth as well as width.

As to the almost limitless benefits to accrue from the building of the highway, Murray said:

"There is no logical excuse for our present depression. It is a reflection on the initiative and the old pioneering spirit which made the United States and Canada. With a territory as large as that lying between Seattle and Chicago, tremendously rich in natural resources, lying dormant for lack of a highway we should be ashamed of the fact that we have STRONG YOUNG MEN on our streets seeking in vain for a livelihood. The highway must be built and British Columbia pledges 100 per cent support in making it an accomplished fact."

HOME BALL CLUB PLAYS SUNDAY AT HI SCHOOL FIELD

Daly City Tanforan will play the strong Half Moon Bay aggregation on the Jefferson High diamond next Sunday at 2 o'clock. The boys are playing a bangup brand of baseball and a large crowd of boosters should be on hand to lend support.

The schedule for the remaining first half games in the Peninsula League follows:

Sunday, May 26—Redwood vs. Burlingame Blues, Redwood; Daly City vs. Half Moon Bay, Daly City; Burlingame Bees vs. Bear Photos, Burlingame.

Sunday, June 2—Daly City vs. Burlingame Blues, Burlingame; Bear Photos vs. Redwood, Redwood; Burlingame Bees vs. Half Moon Bay, Half Moon Bay.

PLACE HOT ASHES IN PAPER CARTON AND START FIRE

Carelessness Results In Near Disastrous Blaze Where Fireman Is Injured

Sunday night the fire department was called to Box 15 to combat what at first appeared to be a bad fire.

The upstairs tenants of 6259 Mission street were moving and poured the hot ashes from a stove in a paper carton and then deposited the carton on the roof of the building next door.

When the department arrived the heat had set fire to the tar and paper and burned through to the inside of the walls of the two story building next door, requiring considerable chopping to reach the blaze.

This is another case of gross negligence in not having a metal ash container.

At 9:10 o'clock the same night some overzealous person thought the department should have another run and turned in a false alarm from Box 17.

Fireman G. Ciarlo of Station No. 1 received a severe cut on his foot and was given first aid at the fire and then taken to the Villa Hospital, where the doctor sewed the cut.

PERIOD OF FLEET RUNNERS IS NEAR

By J. W. MARCHBANK

Glancing over a sales catalogue of some years back I found plenty of interest demonstrating how good blood carries on decade after decade. The book in question happens to be that of a Haggin Rancho del Paso auction as long ago as 1894. Yearly the disposition of the California bred yearlings in New York was a turf event of the greatest importance.

My King Heather is sending out good ones to the races, as all the fans know, and his daughters are proving to be of much value in the breeding paddock. Not only speed, the first essential in a race horse, but stamina as well is represented in the pedigree of the "King."

Read a synopsis of the track performance of Guenn, a matrons that was sent to the court of several of the Australian stallions at Rancho del Paso. When mated with imported Darebin, the mare produced Emma C. All racegoers with a bit of interest in the begininngs of the horses they watch straining every muscle to win out on the oval recall that Emma C. was the dam of Commando. As is well known, among Commando's noted sons was Celt, maternal grandsire of King Heather.

We read:

"Guenn was one of the best of her age, possessing both speed and stamina, winning high class events: the Fame Stakes, 2 miles; the Pocahontas Stakes, mile and 500 yards; the Vestal Stakes, 1¼ miles; the Del Rio Stakes, 2 1-8 miles; the Brooklyn Cup, 1½ miles." It may be mentioned that Guenn was inbred to Lexington, which was quite a help.

In order to have colors up at one of the California meetings it is not necessary to buy a farm or even a stallion; some of the best racers have been bred by a man with only a few mares. The late James B. Haggin did things on a grand scale at Sacramento. That's one way of trying to achieve an ambition of rearing a stakes winner. Another way is to purchase fashionably bred mares and have them boarded at a convenient nursery. Stock horses are available to the newcomer for his mares in a number of places up and down the state. As I have said before, our racing will amount to little unless we breed horses to meet the Easternbreds for the honors out on the course; it's a tiresome thing to see "foreigners" win race after race.

What was said in the nineties of California horses is still true. Read again in the old catalogue:

"Thoroughbreds of the West appeal strongly to practical, thoughtful horsemen, for many reasons. They come to hand early and they possess a wonderful turn of speed. They have marked weight-carrying capacity, have shown their ability to go a distance and are wonderful campaigners, the majority appearing to improve with age. In fact, they appear to be the soundest, healthiest, and best constituted horses in the world, which is doubtless accounted for from the favorable climatic conditions of California."

The grandest racing in the history of the state is bound to come in the next few years. BUT it can be hastened by anyone who can afford it owning a mare or two, with a chance of turning out an Africander.

RANCH WORKER DRINKS POISON

Felice Lombardi, a ranch worker of Colma, committed suicide by drinking poison, last Saturday. He passed away in the Villa Sanitarium the same night.

Lombardi dashed into the Villa Sanitarium, screaming to the attendants that he had taken poison. Medical treatment was administered at once, but without result, the man passing away within a few hours after his rash act.

Deceased leaves a widow and family in Italy, of which country he was a native.

Funeral services were conducted on Tuesday afternoon of this week from a South San Francisco mortuary.

Interment was in the Italain cemetery at Lawndale.

PARKED MACHINE BURNS IN STREET

The automobile of Angelo Lena, 1022 Hanover street, which was parked in front of his home at that address, suddenly burst into flames about 10:30 o'clock on Wednesday evening of this week.

The fire was burning fiercely when a citizen turned in an alarm from Box No. 41, located at Crocker avenue and Winchester street.

Members from Company Nos. 1, 4 and 5 of the fire department, along with members of the local police department, responded and succeeded in extinguishing the flames, but not before the car had been badly damaged.

DISTINGUISHED EDUCATORS VISIT JEFFERSON HIGH

Official Examiner For State University And Famous Football Coach Call

Jefferson Union High School came in for a full share of compliments on last Thursday when two distinguished educators visited the school. One of the visitors was Professor O. M. Washburn from the University of California, official examiner for the State University, and the other was Coach Alonzo Stagg, now a member of the faculty of the College of the Pacific, and formerly of the University of Chicago for forty-one years.

Professor Washburn visited the classes, examining the work done by the teachers and students, and at the end of the day held a conference with Principal Ferguson in the principal's office.

Mr. Ferguson explained the details of the several courses of study offered by the school, and particularly the vocational guidance work that is being done, and which involves the personal visitation of every pupil's home by a member of the faculty. The purpose of these visits is to enable the teachers to become acquainted with the parents of the pupils, and to learn first hand of the desires and ambitions of the parents for their children.

DISTRICT UNITS PARENT TEACHER INSTALL HEADS

Impressive Ceremony Marks Induction Of Officers For Ensuing Year

Before a capacity audience, at Jefferson Union High School last Thursday evening, a joint installation was held, when Mrs. J. J. Garland, retiring president of Seventeenth District, California Congress of Parents and Teachers, in an impressive ceremony, installed officers of the following units of the district: Colma, Crocker, San Pedro, Jefferson Union High, Woodrow Wilson-Vista Grande.

The installation march was led by Mrs. Truman Bentley, president of Jefferson Union High School unit, accompanied by Lorraine Sanders, flower girl, who was dressed in an old-fashioned blue costume.

Past president pins were presented to Mrs. J. H. Clifton, Crocker unit; Mrs. A. T. Hollingsworth. Colma unit; Mrs. Truman Bentley, Jefferson Union High, and Mrs. F. L. MacIntosh, San Pedro-Salada Beach.

Corsages were presented to incoming officers; also to Mrs. R. L. Holder, third vice president of Seventeenth District; Mrs. J. E. Carlson, secretary, Seventeenth District; and Mrs. John F. Coad, district publicity chairman, and to Mrs. Garland. James Ferguson, principal of the Jefferson Union High School, made a splendid address, the keynote of which was patriotism.

Under the direction of Miss M. Mosconi, appreciated selections were rendered by the boys and girls glee clubs of Crocker, Woodrow Wilson-Vista Grande and Colma schools. The A Cappella choir, J. U. H. S., under the direction of T. Stevens, also presented numbers. Stirring marches were played by the J. U. H. S. band, with T. Stevens conducting.

The auditorium was decorated with scarlet hawthorne and greens, and the red-white-blue costumes of the glee club girls made the affair colorful.

Mrs. Stella Jensen was hostess.

SATURDAY WILL CLOSE RACE MEET AT TANFORAN

Most Successful Session On Home Course Ends With Au Revoir Handicap

There will be only two more days of sport at Tanforan for the present meet.

Racing at this historic California course will end Saturday, May 25 with the running of the Au Revoir Handicap. This event, fashioned for three year olds and up at six furlongs, is expected to definitely settle the western speed championship. The fastest thoroughbreds in training here are being tuned up for the occasion.

Features have been arranged by Racing Secretary Webb A. Everett for each afternoon of the closing week of sport. The policy of admitting feminine racegoers free has been adopted for every day of the final week.

Jockeys Bobby Colpitts and Ralph Neves, the two youngsters who are waging the most torrid riding duel seen here in recent years, have an added incentive for their race following the announcement that J. W. Marchbank, directing owner of Tanforan, is giving a wrist watch to the winner.

Neves, a South San Francisco lad, who gave up caddying to ride horses, is now two up on Colpitts, who hails from Klamath Falls, Ore. The score stands at 23 wins to 21.

The Au Revoir Handicap will bring out a flashy field. Among the stars prepping for the event are included R. D. Powers, Sea Cliff, Chictoney, Black Forest, John's Birthday, Carmanchita, Toro Flight, Distribute, Risky Miss, Oriley, Lois Pan and others.

The spring season at Tanforan has been a successfully conducted meeting throughout. Form has been excellent at all times and the sport has been praised on all sides.

DALY CITY BAND DANCE TOMORROW

Tomorrow (Saturday) evening, May 25, the Daly City Band is sponsoring a dance at the Daly City Auditorium.

The proceeds will be used to secure new music and equipment for the band.

This is a worthy cause and should be well supported. The boys assure a good time to all who attend. Union music will play for the dance.

FOUR MONTHS IS CONSTRUCTION TIME FOR EXPO

Marvels Are Wrought By Workmen On Grounds And Buildings

Four months ago a barren stretch of land; today, a gracious hospitable plaza surrounded by ten huge exhibit palaces and adorned with an open air amphitheater which seats 3500 at America's Exposition, opening in San Diego on May 29.

This feat of hectic construction—which has all San Diego agape—was reported by the local headquarters of the exposition. It is termed the "Palisades Miracle." The new plaza—"Plaza del Agua Cantante"—is located in the section of 1400 acre Balboa Park thus named.

It is a commanding site, whence, one might assume, Aborigines stared with wondering eyes as Cabrillo sailed his galleons into the San Diego roadstead and started the march of civilization up the Pacific Coast of what is now the United States.

Rimming the plaza of Singing Water—so called because of its half dozen musical fountains—is a group of buildings reported at this time to be more than 80 per cent complete. It would have taken a single master craftsman, using all of the modern, magic aids of science, more than a hundred years to accomplish what has been done by a small army of workmen in four months, it was estimated.

Several of the buildings in the group are of permanent construction, such as the $125,000 Federal building, the $90,000 California State building and the great Ford Exhibit Palace, which costs in the neighborhood of a million dollars to build.

GREAT ROMANCE OF AIR WARRIORS

First Cosmopolitan Picture Based On Snappy Story Of Aviation Corps

"Devil Dogs of the Air," a mighty romance of the flying marines, is scheduled as the feature attraction at the Daly City Theater on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, May 26, 27 and 28.

The picture, which is the first Cosmopolitan production to be released through Warner Bros., is based on a story by John Monk Saunders dealing with the aviation corps of the U. S. Marines. It again brings together the inimitable trio who appeared in "Here Comes the Navy,"

James Cagney, Pat O'Brien and Frank McHugh. Margaret Lindsay has the leading feminine role.

Running through it all is a fascinating romance in which one pretty girl holds a whole corps of marines to heel.

Like its two famous predecessors, "Here Comes the Navy" and "Flirtation Walk," this picture was produced under a special arrangement with the U. S. govenment, with marine officers acting as technical advisers to assure its accuracy in every detail.

James Cagney has the role of a fresh, conceited kid who is a natural born flyer, but who does not know what the word discipline means.

"Society Doctor," with Chester Morris is the second attraction.

JOTTINGS FROM THE LOCAL FIELD

Mr. and Mrs. J. Eason and family of Hanover street, Mr. and Mrs. E. Byrne and family of Mission street, Miss Patsy Cochran and Mrs. A. Snee and daughter Patsy motored to Salada Beach Sunday and enjoyed the day swimming and picnicing on the beach.

Mrs. L. Fletcher of Templeton avenue returned to her home from a San Francisco hospital where she recently underwent an operation for the amputation of a toe.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Sadler of Risel street motored to San Mateo last Saturday night to attend a dinner given by the L. D. S. Relief Society.

Inquests into the deaths of Henry Johnsen of 16 Risel street and Felice Lombardi of Colma were held at W. C. Lasswell's undertaking establishment, Tuesday afternoon of this week. Death resulted from natural causes in the case of Henry Johnsen. Lombardi died from the effects of poison, self administered, according to the findings of the coroner's inquest.

Regular meeting of Old Glory Post No. 2044, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in Masonic Hall this Friday evening. Visiting comrades welcome.

By buying a Buddy Poppy on Decoration Day, you give partial employment to disabled veterans in government hospitals. Honor the dead by helping the living.

Fred John of Santa Barbara avenue is slowly making progress toward health after his long illness from pneumonia. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Elsie Lewis will be chairman of the whist in Eagle's Hall, Tuesday evening next, sponsored by Old Glory Auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Come and bring your friends and help a worthy cause.

PROCLAIMS POPPY DAY FOR DALY CITY

Saturday, May 25, was proclaimed Poppy Day in Daly City in a proclamation issued today by Mayor H. H. Smith. The proclamation urged all citizens to honor the World War dead by wearing the American Legion and Auxiliary memorial poppy on that day, and to aid the war's living victims by contributing to the Legion and Auxiliary welfare funds. The proclamation follows:

"The City of Daly City during the great crisis of the World War sent forth its sons to the nation's call. They served gallantly in the nation's defense, and of their number some were called upon to lay down their lives in that service. The memory of their patriotic sacrifice should always be held dear by the citizens of Daly City.

"Others of these brave young men were called upon to sacrifice, not life, but the health and strength which makes life worth while. Their families and the families of the dead also were required to make heavy sacrifices. These disabled and dependents are still paying the human price of our nation's World War victory.

"From the battle front in France our returning soldiers brought the poppy as the symbol of sacrifice and the memorial flower of the dead. Each year on the Saturday before Memorial Day the men of the American Legion and the women of the American Legion Auxiliary ask us to wear this flower in tribute to the nation's fallen defenders and to give for the flower a contribution to aid the war's living victims.

"Therefore, I, H. H. Smith, mayor of Daly City urge all citizens to honor the dead and aid the living by wearing the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary memorial poppy on Saturday, May 25.

"And to that end, I do hereby proclaim Saturday, May 25, Poppy Day in the City of Daly City.

H. H. SMITH, Mayor."

SECOND ANNUAL VETERANS PICNIC

The second annual Veterans Picnic at Vallemar Park on Sunday next, May 26, promises to be outstanding in the way of entertainment and amusement for all who attend.

Final plans have been completed and everything is ready to go, as stated by Comrade Jensen, who is in charge of the affair.

To reach the grounds take the Skyline boulevard to Sharpo Park road, thence down toward Salada Beach to Vallemar Park; otherwise follow the arrows. Free ice cream for the children and coffee, milk and sugar for the grownups. Children under 15 years will be admitted free.

LOCAL COURTS MEET TO HONOR NATIONAL HEAD

Catholic Daughters Extend Greetings To Regent Of Order in United States

A group of members from Court St. Mary No. 1155, Catholic Daughters of America, attended a banquet at the Fairmount Hotel in San Francisco on Wednesday evening of this week.

The banquet was given by the combined courts of the bay region in honor of Miss Mary C. Duffy of Newark, New Jersey, supreme regent of the national body of the order.

Among those present were noted the following: Mesdames Elizabeth Wettstein, grand regent; Angelo Johnson, chairman of the Junior Catholic Daughters; Ida Forrest, monitor; K. Core, M. Tripidi and the Misses Pearl Roberts, Ida May Lasswell and Edna Lasswell.

The following members from the local court of Catholic Daughters also attended the reception tendered Miss Duffy: Mesdames Brigid Kerrigan, Charlotte Ford, Agnes Denning, Ethel Bolger, Anne Dempsey and Margaret Fields.

ATTEND DINNER

A group of Royal Neighbors and friends attended a dinner party, Tuesday evening of this week, at the Tell House on Sickles avenue, San Francisco. Dancing also was enjoyed.

Those in the group were Mesdames K. Mara, Cora Ray, D. Burdick, L. White, C. Scott, K. Brown, W. Plumb, L. Brisolese, G. Coolish, M. Smith, A. Wood, A. Appleton, J. Romer, B. Gerber and A. Flambeck.

Drill-Degree Teams Dance

A dance and social sponsored by the drill and degree teams of Old Glory Post and Auxiliary will be held in Eagles Hall Saturday evening, June 8.

The proceeds of this affair will go to help defray expenses of members of the teams to the Veterans of Foreign Wars convention in Bakersfield during the month of June.

HOLD LAST MEETING OF SCHOOL TERM

The Woodrow Wilson-Vista Grande P. T. A. held its last meeting of the term on Tuesday afternoon. Vice President Fannie Kanter presided. All current business was finished, as activities will be suspended during the summer months.

Several members attended the Pan-American Fair held in San Mateo Junior College gymnasium last Friday.

The following chairmen have been appointed: Financial, Mrs. L. Hutchings; program, Mrs. E. Barker; emblems and magazines, Mrs. V. Callsen; Founders' Day, Mrs. F. Kanter; recreation, Mrs. R. Puzey; membership, Mrs. M. Linden and Mrs. E. Wise; sewing club, Mrs. C. Foreman; publicity, Mrs. G. Hill; spiritual training, Mrs. A. Eade.

There will be a district school of instruction held in the Central School, San Mateo, for all officers and chairmen on June 4.

At the graduation exercises to be held in the Jefferson Union High School next Wednesday evening, of the Jefferson School District, Vice President Fannie Kanter will present the P. T. A. scholarship award to honor graduates of the Woodrow Wilson School.

President Pearl Jones leaves Sunday to attend the state convention of the Congress of Parents and Teachers, which will be held in San Diego May 27 to 30 inclusive.

There will be a candy sale today, Friday, in both schools, conducted by this unit.

RODEO GROUNDS AT SALINAS IMPROVED

Extensive improvements are scheduled for the Salinas Rodeo grounds, thereby providing more and better facilities to handle the crowds at the annual rodeo there. This event, one of the largest and most popular on the Pacific Coast, is rapidly growing in prominence and attracts larger crowds each year.

The seating capacity of the main grand stand is to be doubled; the bucking chutes are to be brought forward fifty feet toward the grandstands and to a point directly opposite them. The roping arena is to be lengthened considerably; new gates are to be installed to facilitate rapid entry and exit and the entire parking location is to be planted in lawn, which will eliminate the old inconvenience of stepping out of the car into the dust. Picnicking parties are to be allowed on the grounds, and the new lawn will add much to the pleasure of the parties.

BANK LOANS HAVE PROVED GREAT AID TO EMPLOYMENT

How loans made by Bank of America under the National Housing Act have aided employment in California is explained in an advertisement published this week in newspapers throughout the state.

Up to May 1, the bank has made housing loans in the total amount of $5,667,000. According to bank officials, 55 per cent of this amount has been paid for labor engaged directly in building, repairing and modernizing California homes. An additional amount went to pay for the labor required to provide the materials and supplies used in construction.

Commenting on the showing, L. M. Giannini, president of Bank of America, said, "Our survey shows that through housing loans made by our bank, 3,564,000 man-hours of employment have been created.

"This is particularly gratifying to us, as one of the Bank of America's principal considerations in engaging in statewide activities in co-operation with the Federal Housing Administration was to stimulate employment as the principal necessity for business recovery."

Bank of America's advertisement, which is one of a series of supporting the Federal Housing Program, shows that the bank's loans to date have resulted in the following proportions of man-hours of employment among the building trades: Tile setters, 75,000; iron workers, 16,000; electricians, 79,000; carpenters, 608,000; plasterers, 292,800; bricklayers, 163,200; plumbers, 254,400; laborers, 1,155,000; painters, 816,000 and roofers, 105,000.

The benefits in new employment have been apparent throughout the state where housing loans have been made by Bank of America.

PICTURE COLLECTING GOING ON AT LIBRARY

The John D. Daly Library is proud to announce a recent addition in the form of a constantly growing picture collection.

Sixteen hundred neatly mounted plates, the greater majority colored, are now available to the artist, teacher, naturalist, student or any one who might find them helpful or educational. All pictures are classified according to subject and are filed in drawers easily accessible to the borrower.

A great deal of time and energy have been spent in collecting, cutting, mounting and classifying the pictures; but they are well worth the effort spent on them.

Some of the more important subjects are birds, wild flowers, California Missions, national parks, trees, travel scenes of different countries and a great many reproductions of world famous paintings.

It is hoped that within the next few months at least 3000 more pictures may be added to the collection.

IS HONORED GUEST AT STORK SHOWER

Mrs. John Callan Jr. of Werner street, formerly Miss Viola Statton of Evergreen avenue, was guest of honor, Friday evening of last week, at a stork shower given at Colma Community Center by Mrs. J. Callan Sr. and Mrs. Gladys Escereni of South City.

Mrs. Callan received many beautiful gifts. About fifty relatives and friends attended the affair.

GREAT AMERICAN STAGE HIT OPENS AT THE CURRAN

"Tobacco Road," the most important American play about America, which opened an engagement at the Curran on Monday evening, May 20, comes here with a record breaking run of two years in New York City. It will be presented here by its author, Jack Kirkland, in association with Sam Grisman, who co-produced "Tobacco Road" with him in New York. Already three great actors have portrayed the leading character of Jeeter Lester in this epic drama about the "bresh" section of Georgian back country. The fourth actor to interpret this great dramatic character, and who will be seen here, is in reality the first "Jeeter" for, when Kirkland's record breaking play bows into the Curran, it will star none other than Henry Hull, who was the original "Jeeter" in New York and who, after playing it magnificently there for 28 weeks, was acclaimed by a poll of the New York critics as one of the three best performances of the season.

Henry Hull has been considered one of the outstanding figures of the American theater ever since 1916.

It would seem from the unusual popularity of Henry Hull's portrayal of "Jeeter Lester" in "Tobacco Road" in New York that he might run for an indefinitely long engagement here too, but this is not possible the management informs us as Mr. Hull will be seen here for a definitely limited engagement because the schedule for his tour of "Tobacco Road" over the country must be kept strictly intact.

The Curran announces that there will be bargain matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

PIONEER DALY CITY RESIDENT PASSES

Henry Johnsen, 69, of Risel street passed away last Saturday, succumbing to a lingering illness.

Deceased is survived by his widow, Mary Johnsen, and two daughters, Mrs. L. A. Heaton and Mrs. C. Morrison, both of Los Angeles.

Henry Johnsen was a pioneer resident of Daly City, having lived here for many years.

Funeral services were conducted in the mortuary chapel of W. C. Lasswell & Co., Tuesday morning of this week at 10:30 o'clock. Interment was in Cypress Lawn Cemetery.

NEW SCHOOLS ARE NOW UNDER WAY

Actual work has been started the past week preparatory to construction of the three new elementary school buildings to replace the Jefferson, Crocker and Vista Grande.

As soon as the preliminary work is finished, construction will begin immediately and rushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

STATE BUILDING AT EXPOSITION

The romantic and stirring history of four centuries crowded with the exploits of explorers, pioneers and builders, will be featured in California's State Building at America's Exposition, opening at San Diego on May 29.

The commissioner of the California building has disclosed plans for the exhibits to be made in the building, now nearing completion. The building contains 27,000 square feet of floor space.

There will be a great relief map of the commonwealth, 120 feet long by 12 feet wide.

State departments presenting individual displays include the Departments of Public Works, Motor Vehicles, Natural Resources, Agriculture, Military and Veterans Affairs, the Bureau of Printing and Division of Criminal Investigation. A feature will be California's famous Indian Museum.

Typical of these departmental displays is that of the Department of Public Works, which will show a working model of the Central Valley Water Project, models of the new Camarillo State Hospital and Santa Barbara State Teachers College, Division of Highways working models of material testing devices and modern highway and bridge construction and the San Francisco Bay Bridge Authority's working model of the gigantic span now nearing completion over San Francisco Bay to connect with Oakland.

Department of Motor Vehicles will demonstrate the workings of its bureau of registration, highway patrol, division of accounting and of operators' licensing and adjustment work.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Nance escapes, and goes to Lanny's apartment. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that her real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that she is heiress to $750,000. Fearful of McNamara, in his official capacity, Nance flees. Lanny finds her in her apartment, asleep. Then she disappears, and McNamara learns that she is living in Paris. He also discovers he is in love with Lanny. Stephen warns Penelope by cable to leave Paris, as her whereabouts are known. She flees before the French police get on her trail, and pops back into Lanny's home in San Francisco.

"We'll not fix it in this city, my boy." Thus McNamara.

"Why not?"

"Because when that girl is well she'll probably elect to live her life here, and I don't want a soul in this city, with the exception of ourselves, to know that once she had a saddle nose and a dual personality."

"We can trust the ethical integrity of the man I purpose—"

"I'll trust nobody but myself—and then not too much. Where is the best plastic surgeon in this country?"

"In New York city."

"Lanny, I'll ask the police commission for a sixty day leave of absence. We'll be married at once and take this child to New York with us, put her in a hospital there and have the job done. While it's being done we'll have our honeymoon."

"Three is a crowd—on a honeymoon," Stephen warned.

"It's nothing of the sort," Lanny defended. "Stevie, you mind your own business. Dan and I know our way about."

"Indeed? Well, just because you're so contumacious, I'm going to tell you something. If I hadn't promoted this engagement, you and Dan would not now be engaged. Dan had you up on a pedestal—which is where you never belonged—and you're so naturally manshy you never even learned the rudiments of the come-on as practiced by the dullest, so I talked the matter up!"

"You didn't talk it up to me."

"No, but I listened sympathetically when you raved about what a grand man Dan McNamara was, and my neck is still stiff from nodding agreement. I told Dan you were crazy about him and worked up his courage—"

"You're a liar," McNamara charged, feebly and without malice.

"Dan McNamara is one man who doesn't have to have help with his courage or thinking," Lanny declared pridefully. "And you do, Stephen Burt. You're adept at lording it over your befuddled patients, but Rebecca P. Lanning is a horse of another color."

"I think I'll go home," Stephen retorted, and went.

He was back in the morning with the impedimenta of his profession. Penelope greeted him gravely. "Good morning, Doctor Burt."

He started. The strident note of Nance Belden was gone from her voice. She spoke now in the low, level tone of the girl of breeding. Then she sat down, and they conversed for half an hour on topics of general interest, but during that time she did not move once from her seat. Her vocabulary was free of underworld expressions, her diction perfect, her sentences grammatical.

"You have had a good night's rest, Miss Gatlin," he ventured.

She nodded, smiling a little. "I am not at all nervous this morning, Doctor Burt. When I am very tired, or excited about something, I am always horribly nervous."

"And you get dreadfully depressed, do you not?"

She nodded. "So depressed that at times I want to die."

"Well, we might as well start your physical examination. I'm going to try to ascertain why you can't be cheerful always. There's a reason, of course, for your nervousness and depression, so I want to examine you very meticulously and see if your trouble can be charged up to some physical condition. Let me feel your pulse."

It was eighty-three, full and strong.

Stephen's examination of the girl was as complete as modern medical science could make it, and when the last laboratory report came in three days later he called Lanny in to discuss the girl.

"With the exception of a subnormal chest expansion, Lanny, that girl is without doubt the healthiest young woman I have ever examined. Her sole physical defect is her nose. But for that I think she'd be a husky little athlete right now. She told me she always wanted to excel in tennis, golf and dancing—well, of course she'd want to excel in something. She couldn't compete in good looks. I'll write up my report on her and you can hand a copy of it to the man who is to do the operation. I've wired him that I was sending on a patient, and he has agreed to care for her. I see by this morning's paper that Mac has been given a leave of absence."

Lanny nodded.

"When are you and Dan to be married?"

"Tomorrow. We're flying to Reno to avoid the three-day notice of intention to marry demanded by the California law."

"Penelope flying with you?"

"Naturally. She's my bridesmaid!"

"Who's going to give the bride away?"

"Nobody. Dan and I are too old to stand for a long-drawn-out marriage ceremony."

"Well, I suppose I'm stuck for a wedding present. How much money have I got in the bank?"

"Approximately twenty thousand. I'm going to buy you some Argentine bonds today. There's no reason why those bonds shouldn't be selling at—"

"Lanny, you're mercenary. I don't care for a dissertation on bonds. Draw yourself a check for ten thousand and spend it all in riotous living. Give old Dan a real blow out—"

"Stevie, you're mad!"

"Quiet, please. Love from the boss, Lanny, and no back talk from you. And for heaven's sake do get a half-way intelligent nurse to take your place while you're away."

"I've engaged Miss Ordway."

"Horrible. Her face would stop a parade. She's efficient, but terrible to look at."

The tears were welling in Lanny's eyes. "Oh, Stevie, I want you to be safe—while I'm away," she choked.

She Nodded, "So Depressed That at Times I Want to Die."

"No hoity-toity—young thing—with her sweet smile—and winning ways—and you such a—softy—oh, Stevie, Stevie, I can't bear to leave you. If I do, something dreadful will happen to you." And Lanny laid her head on her desk and sobbed quite heartily.

However, Stephen knew what was good for Lanny. "You make me ill," he said coldly. "You carry on like a girl of sixteen."

Instantly Lanny was furious. "You don't appreciate me," she charged.

"Be still. Where's the check book? On an occasion such as the present I suppose I should sign the check myself."

"It wouldn't do any good if you did, darling. You've never registered your signature at your bank and you have no authority to sign checks on your own bank account. How funny!" and Lanny commenced to laugh. "How lucky I thought of that before leaving!"

Thereupon Stephen put both arms around her and kissed her three times and told her she was as the shadow of a rock in a weary land; that she was very dear to him; that whatever she did was O. K. with him and he'd miss having his daily fight with her; and finally so softened her that she consented to let him fly to Reno and give the bride away. It developed that she had always wanted him to do this but loathed putting him to so much trouble.

At the expiration of his leave McNamara returned to duty, but Lanny remained with Penelope in New York. Performed by a master, the operation had proved successful thus far. The actual work of the operation had been the least of it; the subsequent care of the bone and skin graft, and the surgeon's artistry in reshaping the nose were what required time and patience. Lanny reported that the patient would not be discharged for at least three months more.

"How did Penelope approach the operation?" Stephen queried of McNamara.

"Happily. Not a whit nervous. Lanny had complete control over her." He grinned. "I passed as her Uncle Dan and the wife as Aunt Lanny. Lanny saw to it that the girl didn't do any talking while the doctor was present."

"You're a good fellow, Dan."

"Well," McNamara admitted unmodestly, "it wasn't much of a honeymoon, I'll admit. However, we'd set our hands to the job and we couldn't turn back, God help us."

"Well, you have this consolation, my friend. Your job is over, and mine will commence when Lanny returns with the girl."

"D'ye think you can pull her through, lad?"

"I'm sure I can, Dan. A psychoneurosis generally is impossible to cure unless you know its causative factors and can remove them. If you can do that, it's as simple as removing a wart. Dan, have you looked up the girl's ancestry?"

"I have not."

"Then do so immediately. We might run into a situation that will shed a bright, effulgent beam of light on my job."

"The attorney that handled Gatlin's affairs ought to be a good man to start with, Stephen. I'll motor to San Jose tomorrow and look him up. The bank will know who he is."

The bank president did know the name of the attorney, but added the disconcerting information that the man had been dead six years. McNamara thereupon called the man's widow to ask if she still retained her late husband's files. He had a faint hope that if she would permit him to look into the Gatlin file he might find a clue. He was informed to his amazement, that about two years and a half before, Mrs. Merton had called upon her, asked for the file and had been given it.

There was but one club in the city—the Elks—and McNamara wondered if Theodore Gatlin had belonged to that. He discovered Gatlin had, and from the dining room steward, who remembered Theodore Gatlin very well, he ascertained the names and addresses of three men with whom Gatlin had according to the steward, seemed very friendly.

Of these three men, one was dead and the others were unable to shed any light upon the parentage of Gatlin's adopted daughter, although one man had a hazy recollection that the child's father had been an army officer and had been killed in the Philippines. The chief's questionings, however, elicited the names of two women who had been friendly with Mrs. Gatlin, so McNamara called upon both. They could furnish him no information beyond the fact that Mrs. Gatlin despised the child Penelope; that she had never been enthusiastic about the adoption; that she had never been kind to the girl; that Gatlin and Penelope had been inseparable pals. They had a feeling that Mrs. Gatlin, while apparently delighting in persecuting her husband, was, nevertheless, insanely jealous of his love for his adopted daughter; that up to the day of her accident, Penelope had been a bright, healthy, normal child, fun-loving and affectionate and humorous, and the delight of her foster father.

CHAPTER XI

Dan reported to Stephen, somewhat depressed, because he had returned, he thought, without a scintilla of worthwhile information. Stephen, however, thought otherwise. "I'll have to question Mrs. Merton again," he decided. He rang for Miss Ordway. "Telephone to Mrs. Merton," he ordered, "and tell her I wish she'd drop in here some day soon. Tell her I'd like the latest report on her health."

"What are you going to do?" McNamara asked.

"Hypnotize her again, of course. I've got to release her from the mental inhibition I set upon her in the case of her adopted daughter. Otherwise she'll not talk."

A minute later Miss Ordway entered the room. "Mrs. Merton says she will be down for her interview in half an hour, Doctor."

"When she arrives, Dan, you step out into the nurse's office until I have her under control; then I'll admit you. I want you to take copious notes."

Mrs. Merton fluttered into Stephen's consultation room forty minutes later. "Oh, Doctor Burt," she whined, "I'm so glad you've sent for me. My insomnia is worse than ever," she wailed. "Oh, Doctor, do you think I'm going crazy?"

"Not at all, not at all," he soothed her.

"You are excited over nothing. But you are in a highly nervous condition, of course, and until you have settled down it would be useless for me to attempt to examine you. If you could have a little nap for, say half an hour on the couch in the next room, I'm sure you would awaken much refreshed."

"Oh, if I could only sleep half an hour, Doctor, if I only could. What a relief it would be."

"Nonsense, my dear lady. We doctors have ways of inducing sleep even in the most obstinate cases of insomnia."

At his command she lay down on the couch and Stephen place a cushion under her head. Employing the appropriate method of inducing hypnotic sleep, Stephen had her drowsy within three minutes; in ten minutes she had passed into a profound state and Stephen summoned McNamara, gave him a pad and pencil and silently indicated a chair.

Mrs. Merton, however, was aware of his presence. "Who's there?" she demanded in a drowsy tone.

"Doctor McNamara, Mrs. Merton. I have called him in to confer with me on your case."

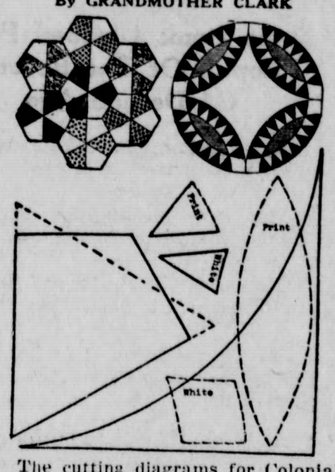
CORRECT GUIDES TO QUILT MAKING

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK



The cutting diagrams for Colonial quilt No. 97B and Indian Wedding Ring No. 90B are offered to quilt makers who are particular to have the patches cut out right. These cutouts include the seam allowance. It is necessary to cut the patches out right if you want neat results. The Indian Wedding Ring has five different pieces to be cut out and the Colonial Garden only one. The triangle shown is sometimes used when the Colonial quilt is set together, leaving a running vine between units. The Indian Wedding Ring is identical with the Double Wedding Ring, only more patches are used to produce the effect.

Send 10 cents to our quilt department and we will mail both of these cutout sets postpaid.

Virtue in Lemon

It is, indeed, the greatest contribution one can make to city and nation that one should be a good man, a good woman, reverencing truth, justice, nobility, honor, chivalry, and trying to exalt them in all that one is and does; despising everything unfair and mean, and making one's fellows see by the way one acts what a beneficient and royal thing is trade, or mechanical industry, or the interpretation of the law, or the healing or nursing of the sick, or the pursuit of knowledge or art, or the teaching of children.—John Hunter.

FOR SCIENTIFIC WAR ON LOCUST

Airplane Enlisted in Fight to Control Pest.

During the past nine years locust swarms have been devastating vast areas in Africa and western Asia, and since 1929 experts have been studying means of controlling the insects. Recently, at an international locust conference held in London, it was resolved that the locusts could be halted through the control of their breeding grounds, or, if they are already in migration, through their destruction in flight.

Agricultural development in Africa has been considerably impeded by the depredations of the locusts, which have caused losses of approximately $35,000,000. Investigations have now disclosed that each species of locust inhabits exclusively a definite zone of vegetation and that its migrations are governed by the seasons. Many of these breeding regions have now been located. The desert locust, for instance, is known to breed in the remote lands south of the Sahara and to migrate northward to the fertile Mediterranean coast of Africa.

Once the breeding areas have been found, the conference reports, the next step in control is to establish field stations where the life habits of the insects will be studied. Evidence already gathered tends to show that swarms form when the life cycles of solitary locusts are accelerated, causing a rapid multiplication of numbers.

As swarms gather preparatory to flight, if their migratory courses have been discovered as well as their breeding sources, it is then possible, recent experiments in America indicate, to destroy them with poison dust sprayed from airplanes. Locusts make no effort, it has been shown, to avoid a cloud of sodium arsenate dust blown across their line of flight. Nor does the passage of an airplane through or across their ranks deter them from the course.

Most of the locusts passing through the sodium arsenate eventually drop out of the swarm to their death, apparently because the inhalation of the dust brings on paralysis. The poison will remain fatal to a passing swarm for about three minutes. It must be discharged several times for large swarms and must be sprayed at a height of about 100 feet to avoid damage to crops.

DALY CITY CLUB BEATS REDWOOD REGAL AMBERS

Good Playing and Excellent Umpiring Pleases Large Number Of Fans

The home club, playing a much improved caliber of baseball than that of a week ago, decisively defeated the strong Royal Amber nine from Redwood City in the third league contest Sunday afternoon at Jefferson school diamond.

Carrasco easily was the bright star of the game. As a matter of fact, he stood out in bold relief as the best player on the field. He gave the fans a great demonstration in the art of base-running in the eighth inning.

Hatley, the Regal Amber twirler, was in fine form. The play by play account of the game will tell the story of this lad's effort.

FIRST INNING

Regal Amber—Stephens fanned. Garcia flied to Maloney. Cullen fanned. No hits, no runs, no errors.

Daly City—Kirby flied to Swanson. Carrasco flied to Lawler. Maloney flied to Lawler. No hits, no runs, no errors.

SECOND INNING

Regal Amber—Harruff singled to left. Tagnoli sacrificed, Sullivan to Carrasco. Harruff took third on a passed ball. Lawler fanned. Swanson singled over short, scoring Harruff. Brooks fanned. Two hits, one run, no errors.

Daly City—Vasquez hit a line drive which lodged in the wire piled at the new shop building, being credited with a triple, which would have been an easy four base clout if the base line had been clear. Petrocchi fanned. Dinneen fanned. With the count two and two on Albrecht, Vasquez took advtantage of Hatley's slow wind-up and headed for home with a sure tally, but Albrecht made a wild swing at an outside ball retiring the side on this play. One hit, no runs, no errors.

THIRD INNING

Regal Amber—Hatley singled over second. Stephens singled to left. Garcia sacrificed, Dinneen unassisted. With the count two and two on Cullen, Hatley attempted to steal home, and was out as Cullen fanned, completing a double play, Sullivan to Kondeff. Two hits, no runs, no errors.

Daly City—Kondeff fanned. Sullivan went out, Harruff to Brooks. Kirby flied to Garcia. No hits, no runs, no errors.

FOURTH INNING

Regal Amber—Harruff went out, Vasquez to Dinneen. Tagnoli fanned. Lawler flied to Albrecht. No hits, no runs, no errors.

Daly City—Carrasco singled over second. Maloney walked. Vasquez hit a low fly to short left, where Tagnoli made a remarkable catch. With Petrocchi at bat Carrasco stole third. On this play Carrasco upset Harruff when sliding into the bag, both players being injured; time was called by Umpire Vellou. Carrasco was cut on the forehead and Harruff had a nail torn from a finger. Petrocchi doubled to left, scoring Carrasco and sending Maloney to third. Dinneen flied to Tagnoli in deep short. Maloney, trying to score after the catch, was caught flat-footed at home, Tagnoli to Cullen, completing a double play. Two hits, one run, no errors.

FIFTH INNING

Regal Amber—Swanson out, Carrasco to Dinneen, on a very fast play. Brooks singled over second. Hatley walked. Stephens at bat. Brooks stole third. Stephens walked, filling bases. Garcia flied to Vasquez. Cullen fanned. One hit, no runs, no errors.

Daly City—Albrecht singled to left. Kondeff sacrificed, Brooks unassisted. Sullivan through short, scoring Albrecht. Kirby flied to Swanson. Carrasco flied to Lawlor. Two hits, one run, no errors.

SIXTH INNING

Regal Amber—Harruff flied to Petrocchi. Tagnoli singel, Carrasco being unable to handle ball on bad hop. Lawler singled pass third on the line. Swanson hit into a double play, Carrasco to Vasquez to Dinneen. Two hits, no runs, no errors.

Daly City—Maloney out, Tagnoli to Brooks. Vasquez hit a long fly to deep left, which Stephens knocked down after a long run, but was unable to handle, Vasquez making a home run. Petricchi fanned. Dinneen singled over short. Albrecht grounded to Tagnoli, who tossed to Garcia, retiring Dinneen at second. Two hits, one run, no errors.

SEVENTH INNING

Regal Amber—Brooks walked. Hatley fanned. Stephens flied to Maloney. Garcia flied to Vasquez in deep short. No hits, no runs, no errors.

Daly City — Kondeff flied to Stephens. Sullivan flied to Stephens. Kirby flied to Lawlor. No hits, no runs, no errors.

EIGHTH INNING

Regal Amber—Cullen fanned. Harruff walked. Tagnoli flied to Petrocchi. Lawler grounded to Kirby, who tossed to Carrasco, retiring Harruff at second. No hits, no runs, no errors.

Daly City—Carrasco singled past short. Maloney hit a high fly to short center, which Tagnoli, Lawler and Stephens went after; the ball dropped between them, giving Maloney credit for a single. Vasquez hit to third, filling the sacks. Petrocchi flied to deep center, Carrasco scoring after the catch. Dinneen singled through second, scoring Maloney, Vasquez taking third. Albrecht doubled, scoring Vasquez and sending Dinneen to third. Kondeff walked, filling the bases. Sullivan flied to Tagnoli, who tossed the ball to Garcia, doubling Albrecht at second. Five hits, three runs, no errors.

NINTH INNING

Regal Amber — Swanson walked. Brooks grounded to Vasquez, who tossed to Carrasco, forcing Swanson at second. Hatlef flied to Petrocchi. Stephens grounded to Carrasco, who tagged Brooks at second, retiring the side and ending the game. No hits, no runs, no errors.

The snappy way the umpires hustled the play along and the efficient manner in which they performed their work added greatly to the enjoyment of the game by the large crowd of faces in attendance.

MEMORIAL DAY

(By Maude Larue Ives)

Memorial Day, or Decoration Day, is a day in the spring of each year originally set apart as a legal holiday in most of the states of the American Uuion to do honor to those who fought on either side in the war to secession. Beginning with the practice by bereaved Southern women, of strewing wild flowers on the graves of their soldier dead one certain day each year, the beautiful custom has become nationwide. The celebration of the day has been extended to include the honored dead of the Spanish-American and World Wars.

General John A. Logan ,commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, in 1868, designated the thirtieth day of May as the day on which the graves of dead Union soldiers should be decorated, and this date is now universally observed throughout the Northern states. April 26 is appointed as Memorial Day in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, and Mississippi; in North and South Carolina, the day set apart as May 10; the second Friday in May is observed in Tennessee; in Louisiana, Jefferson Davis' birthday, June 3, was once that state's Memorial Day, but it is now April 26.

Decoration Day is a day of dignified addresses, exercises, parades and military salutes, as well as strewing of flowers and planting of shrubs.

"No more shall the war cry sever,
Or the winding rivers be red;
They banish our anger forever
When they laurel the graves of our dead!"

Does Pressure Change?

If there is a change in the oil pressure guage reading when the car turns a corner or climbs or descends a grade, it may be due to an insufficient quantity in the crankcase.

But, if that possible cause is eliminated, worn gears or a defective pressure relief valve may be responsible.

SOME QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Some Little Known Matters That Should Prove of General Interest

(By Maude Larue Ives)

Question: What became of Benedict Arnold?

Answer: After the War of Independence was over, with his wife and family, he took up his residence in London. His sons entered the British army, where they rendered distinguished service. The story is that the dying Aarnold called for his old uniform with its epaulets, and put it on, saying remorsefully: "Let me die in the old uniform in which I fought my battles. May God forgive me for putting on any other."

Exhaust valves become pitted and warped more readily than intake valves because they come in contact with the hot exhaust gases.

LESSON SERMON OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the Lord: my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God." These words from Psalms comprise the Golden Text to be used Sunday, May 26, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The subject of the Lesson-Semon will be "Soul and Body." Included among the Scriptural selections will be: "And you hath he quickened who were dead in treaspasses and sins; . . . Even when we were dead in sins, hath quickened us together with Christ, (by grace ye are saved;) . . . For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God:" (Ephesians 2: 1, 5, 8).

The following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included: "Soul is immortal because it is Spirit, which has no element of self-destruction. Is man lost spiritually? No, he can only lose a sense material. . . . So long as we believe that soul can sin or that immortal Soul is in mortal body, we can never understand the Science of being" (p. 311).

MEETING OF SONS OF AMERICAN LEGION

The fourth regular meeting of the Sons of the American Legion was held Monday evening of this week. Improvements are being made on the Legion Hall of Daly City Post No. 410.

We are having many suggestions from Mr. Riordan, Mr. McIntosh and Mr. Hill, who are helping a great deal to get the Sons of the American Legion organized properly.

The boys will shortly hold a paper drive. Save your papers, for some of the Sons of the American Legion will ask for them. Help them as much as you can.

DALY CITY AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

(Catherine Foreman, Pub. Chm.)

Last Sunday the United Ancient Order of Druids held a thirtieth anniversary celebration in South San Francisco. The San Mateo County Council Drill Team of the American Legion marched in the parade and won a beautiful silver cup at this celebration.

On Monday District President Catherine Foreman installed the officers of Marina Unit No. 348. The San Mateo County Council drill team assisted at the installation. Greater Mission Unit No. 347 initiated all the new members in the Marina unit.

Daly City Unit No. 410 held a successful board meeting on Wednesday at the home of Sister Andersen.

On Memorial Day the members of Daly City Unit No. 410 and the Coupnty Counlcil drill team will participate in services to be held in Daly City, on the parade grounds.

Saturday, May 25, is Poppy Day, don't forget the veteran made paper poppy. The members of Daly City unit will have them for you to wera. The Daly City Junior drill team will also have them.

Let us not forget those men who gave their all.

IN FLANDERS FIELDS

In Flanders Fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks; still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the Dead. Short days ago we Lived; felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we
Lie in Flanders Fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe;
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies
Grow in Flanders Fields.

WEEKLY BULLETIN

By Chief A. P. Chesney

There is a branch of the fire department which is giving service to the people of Daly City that is not accompanied by the blowing of sirens.

There is a chief fire marshal who is elected by the fire commissioners, and each station elects one of its members as deputies, making a staff of seven fire marshals. Their duties are to investigate any complaints or reports in their respective districts, also to examine and locate all dangerous chimneys, fire hazards, etc.

A great many of our kitchen flues are out of sight from the street and this is where the owners or tenants can help these men by reporting any broken or burned out chimneys.

If the deputies cannot prevail on the owner to repair or make changes, the chief fire marshal then takes the matter up in a legal manner; but this does not need to be resorted to very often, as the majority of owners are glad to remedy these evils.

The chief marshal or some of his deputies visit the local theater to see that the aisles or exits are not overcrowded.

The management of the theater work in conjunction with the department and try to live up to the law, but every once in a while someone will try to smoke in the forbidden sections.

Another branch of service is the drilling of the pupils in the seven schools.

This is done by the chief and assistant and is always called unawares to either teachers or pupils; but, through these monthly drills and the ones held by the teachers, the children empty our schools in very quick time.

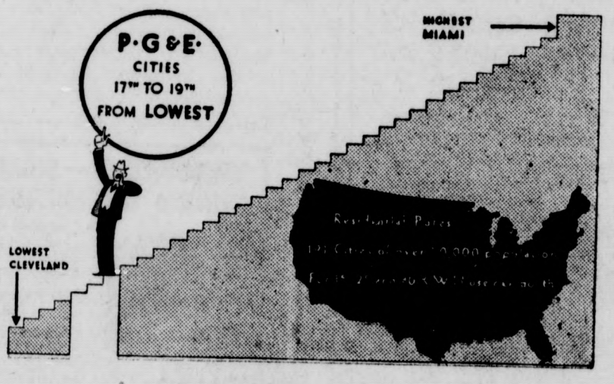
ELECTRICITY IS CHEAP IN CALIFORNIA

TWICE PROVED

—by Federal Power Survey
—by California Railroad Commission

1. Federal Power Survey shows . . .

residential rates in cities served by P. G. and E. rank 17th to 19th from lowest in the U. S. for monthly consumption of 15, 25 and 40 KWH in comparison of residential rates in 191 cities of over 50,000 population.



2. California Railroad Commission report shows . . .

"a comparison between the rates for electric power in California and the rest of the United States indicates that the average rate for domestic electricity in this state is 4.8 cents per kilowatt hour, while the average for the United States is 6.0 cents. Also, the average rate for agricultural power in California is 1.5 cents per kilowatt hour as compared with 2.8 cents for the entire United States."

Notice that this report deals with average California rates. P. G. and E. domestic rates are below the California average. They are 20 per cent below the national average. And P. G. and E. agricultural rates are 46 per cent below the national average.

MOSES KNEW

The demand for rest on the Sabbath goes back to the days of Moses, who was the greatest medical officer of health and sanitary inspector that ever lived. He realized that mankind could not work continuously seven days a week. I agree with that, and that is why I have always been afraid of any serious derogation from the observation of the Lord's day. I know that once you get a serious breach in this respect we may all have to work seven days a week. I certainly do not believe in that doctrine. I would like to have a whole day of recreation also on the day previous to the Lord's day.—F. A. Macquisten, K. C.

HOMES IN NORTH CONSTRUCTED OF STEEL AND CORK

Two portable dwellings of steel frames and corkboard walls and roofs went to Alaska to replace homes destroyed in the Nome fire a few months ago, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The experiment has shown that this type of construction, in which the insulation is the structure instead of an addition to the structure, is admirably suited to cold regions in particular.

The material for the homes was cut to size at the factory, the parts were numbered and the houses were sent by boat to Nome where, despite adverse weather conditions, the dwellings were erected in ten days.

It is estimated the cost of such construction is about one-fourth more than for ordinary frame structures, but to offset this, a saving of fifteen per cent, or more in fuel is claimed.

In addition to complete insulation the cork and steel homes are fire resistant, vermin proof, immune to dry rot and impervious to moisture. The houses can be knocked down, moved and reassembled easily if the steel frames a bolted to timbers as a base. The corkboard is squeeze-fitted between the steel angles and secured with wire.

Lumber is used over the corkboard roof and on this is laid composite roll roofing. Each Alaskan home is eighteen by thirty feet, sufficient for four small rooms, and each structure required two and one-half tons of steel and 5,500 feet, board measure, of corkboard.

This type of construction permits optional finish, inside and outside, with stucco, brick veneer, sheet iron or stone as outside choices, and plaster, veneer panels or other finish for the interior. Provision is made easily for inside plumbing and wiring.

Standard specifications call for steel doors and window sashes with provision for storm windows. Floors are of wood.

Egypt's Ten Plagues

The popular notion is that Egypt suffered seven plagues, when in reality the country suffered ten. They were the turning of the Nile into blood, covering the land with frogs, turning the dust into lice, sending swarms of flies, killing of the cattle by a murrain, afflicting the Egyptians with boils, raining fire and hail, covering the land with locusts, covering the land with a thick darkness for three days, and the destruction of the first born of man and beast.

Russian "Justice"

Sherwood Eddy, who has visited Russia six times under the existing government, says that no profession is made in that country of settling disputes upon a basis of absolute or of abstract justice. If the offender is a poor worker he is given a light sentence, if he is an intelligent or privileged citizen who should have known better, he is given a heavier punishment, but if he is a member of the Communist party he is given the maximum penalty of the law.

BADEN KENNEL CLUB TO REOPEN SOON

Baden Kennel Club, South San Francisco, will reopen its gates May 29 to continue its 1935 spring meeting, according to an announcement made today by R. C. Stickle, club president. Baden closed March 11 to make way for the horse races at Bay Meadows and Tanforan after operating only two weeks.

Judge H. M. Barton is directing operations for the reopening, and promises several innovations. Directors of the club, he revealed, met shortly after March 11 and voted to limit entries to eight dogs per race and incorporated that provision in the club's rules. Baden started eight-dog racing in 1932 and believes it more satisfactory to the public.

Stickle voiced the hope that the dog racing bill before the legislature would be approved, and announced that when it becomes a law of the state Baden will abide by its provisions unhesitatingly. Until that time the South San Francisco track will operate under the opinion system.

RECEPTION HONORS YOUNG NEWLYWEDS

Mrs. Evelyn McGuire of Woodrow street, daughter of Mrs. K. Wight, and Mr. Daniel Rourke of San Francisco were married Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Episcopal Church at Woodside by Reverend Morgan.

After the services a reception was held at the home of Miss A. Ralston in Woodside for the happy couple, after which they left for a short motor trip through the southern part of the state. On their return they will make their home in San Francisco.

PEDESTRIANS PAY FOR HIGHWAY OFFENSES

Pedestrians pay dearly for their privilege of using the streets and motorists. In 1934, nearly half of all highways; a privilege that is supposed to be equal to that enjoyed by the persons killed in automobile accidents were pedestrians. Many of them failed too much to safeguard their own lives.

Five out of every eight pedestrians killed were involved in accidents while crossing streets in the middle of the block, crossing intersections against signals or diagonally, darting out into streets from behind parked cars, or while walking along rural highways. In a good many of these accidents the pedestrians could and should have taken certain simple precautions that would have safeguarded their lives.

Pedestrians run across steets in the middle of the block or against signals because they feel that little if any more protection is given them at properly designated crosswalks or when they wait for the signals. They know it is dangerous to walk along rural highways ,but since paths or walks have not been provided, what else is there that pedestrians can do but take their chances with automobiles?

Pedestrians may well pause to consider the fact that in 1934 the rate of death per pedestrian accident was 45 per cent worse crossing in the middle of the block than at intersections, and was 74 per cent worse crossing against signals than with signals.

The safest way is always the quickest way. Pedestrians may well heed such advice.

GREAT DANGER IN TOO MUCH SPEED

Officials In All Parts Of World Now Awakened To Growth Of Fatalities

War has been declared on speed, both here and abroad. The British government, shocked by a series of fatalities, has moved to restore the limits abolished several years ago. In Massachusetts, the Public Works Department recently recommended the installation on every car of mechanical devices designed to control speeds to a maximum of 50 miles an hour. The Long Island State Park Commission recently announced that it would not tolerate driving on the state highways under its jurisdiction at a speed exceeding the legal limit of 40 miles an hour. Not always has speed been given its due weight as a factor in the mounting highway traffic toll of death and injury.

For a time the disposition of many state motor vehicle administrators was to decry speed limits and focus attention on reckless driving.

Wide, smooth highways are a temptation to motorists to drive too fast. Serious accidents occur, with serious consequences. The amateur defender of high speeds usually overlooks three important considerations: The greater the speed (1) the wider the space required between cars, (2) the longer the distance required to bring the car to a full stop, (3) the more serious the probable results of any accident. It is for this last reason that speed, in itself, may be considered a direct factor in automobile fatalities.

The latest revision of the recommended uniform act regulating traffic on highways contains the following simple restrictions, which may well be regarded as the minimum for securing public safety:

No person shall drive a vehicle on a highway at a speed greater than is reasonable and prudent under the conditions then existing.

Where no special hazard exists the following speeds shall be lawful, but any speed in excess of said limits shall be prima facio evidence that the speed is not reasonable or prudent and that it is unlawful: Twenty miles per hour in any business district; twenty-five miles per hour in any residence district; forty-five miles per hour under other conditions.

WILLOW PATTERN TEA

This Friday, May 17, at the Hamilton Methodist Church, Belevedere and Waller streets, San Francisco, the San Francisco-San Mateo County Woman's Christian Temperance Union will hold a Willow Pattern Tea at 2 o'clock.

A group of songs by Mrs. Margaret McNair, and a fan dance by Marjory Guth, Mrs. Etha Wulf, director of education at Golden Gate Park will tell the story of the Willow Ware Pattern.

The special speaker will be Mrs. Anna Marden De Yo, corresponding secretary of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union, whose theme will be the educational work of the W. C. T. U.

Spectator Injured At Fire

George Ciarlo, 3324 San Jose avenue, a spectator at the scene of the fire here Sunday, was taken to the Villa Sanitarium by members of Company No. 1 when injured.

Ciarlo was treated for cuts between the toes, received when he stepped on some broken glass.

CATHOLIC DAUGHTERS INITIATE LARGE CLASS

Court St. Mary, Catholic Daughters of America, initiated a class of ten candidates in Eagles Hall Wednesday evening of last week.

The state grand regent, Mrs. May Q. Lillienthal of Oakland, and state chaplain, Father J. Cullen; Father J. Doyle, the court chaplain, and Father Miller of Holy Angels Church at Colma, were among the honored guests.

Grand regents and delegations from various courts in San Francisco were also present.

Grand Regent Elizabeth Wettstein, of the local court, may well be proud of her officers and the big class of candidates initiated.

The hall was artistically decorated with spring blossoms, as were the tables.

The hospitality committee, under the leadership of Mrs. Christine Michelson, served a fine supper.

An enjoyable evening was spent by the members and friends and guests.

WILL STAY AWHILE

Mrs. E. Waters and son Everett of Santa Rosa are visitors at the home of her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. William Hutchings of Roosevelt avenue.

They contemplate spending two months in Daly City.

WORKERS ENTERTAIN

The whist party given by the Daly City Workers at Eagles Hall on Tuesday evening of this week, proved a popular success, and an evening of real entertainment was enjoyed by all in attendance.

A number of valuable prizes were awarded to the best players and also several consolation prizes to make happy some of those who were "not so good."

WAX POLISH ENDURES

Giving the body of the car a high finish with a wax polish is one way to assure that it will have a lasting luster After such a cleansing treatment, keeping the car looking well—for several monts, at least— is a matter of wiping off dust and dirt with a dry cloth.

Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pearson of Hanover street held open house last Sunday night in their home, to celebrate their first wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Pearson and her maid of honor, Miss Vera Helgesson, wore the same gowns they wore at the wedding. The hostess made a charming picture as she received her guests.

The happy couple received many lovely gifts from many friends who came to congratulate them and to extend their wishes for continued happiness.

Tasty refreshments were served at a late hour at an artistically decorated table. A large wedding cake decorated with a "bride and groom" graced the center of the table.

SAN MATEO FIRE DEPARTMENT DANCE

Chief and Mrs. A. Chesney spent a very pleasant evening, last Saturday, as invited guests of Chief Hugh Morris at the annual ball given by the Widows and Orphans Fund of the San Mateo Fire Department, held in Bay Meadows club house on that evening.

Chief Morris and his officers and men are to be commended for the splendid arrangements that were completed to make both their invited and pay guests feel at home.

A ten piece orchestra furnished the dance music and some good singers from various radio stations helped out in the entertainment features.

COMMUNION FOR LOCAL DELEGATES

Past Grand Regent Margaret Fields and Vice Grand Regent Helen Rode were delegates from Court St. Mary No. 1155, Catholic Daughters of America, Saturday and Sunday, to the National Council of Catholic Women convention, which was held at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco recently.

They also received communion with a large delegation in St. Mary's Cathedral, Sunday morning, and participated in the breakfast in the Fairmount Hotel following the rites.

DISTINGUISHED EDUCATORS VISIT JEFFERSON HIGH

and gave enthusiastic approval of the home visitation plan. He had not heard of the plan on such an extensive and comprehensive scale before. Usually home visits by teachers are confined to cases of discipline, or where pupils are failing in their work, and are intended to correct these conditions. The purpose of Jefferson's home visitation plan is more comprehensive and is intended to further the interests of the best students as well as the interests of those who may not be doing good work.

Before leaving the school Professor Washburn complimented the high school trustees and the faculty on the educational work being done in Jefferson, and remarked that with such a progressive educational program being carried on he had "neither criticism nor suggestion" to offer.

Professor Washburn left with Mr. Ferguson a transcript of the records made by two former graduates from Jefferson who are now attending the university — Frances Franzen and Walter Fati. Both are doing work that reflects credit upon their high school teachers.

Coach Stagg had been invited to deliver an address before the student body. Immediately upon arrival at the school he expressed a desire to see the athletic grounds. As a student in Yale he was pitcher for five years on the university ball team, which held the championship during that time. So he was interested in Jefferson's baseball diamond, which he pronounced excellent. But it was the football field that attracted him chiefly, for it has been in football that he has done notable work for over forty years.

"I did not realize you had any such field as this,' 'he said to Principal Ferguson, his eyes sparkling with enthusiasm. "I do not know of any high school having one as good, and very few colleges have anything to equal it."

Mr. Stagg also inspected the tennis courts which are under construction. "The Jefferson Union High School Board of Trustees evidently believes it is cheaper to make improvements in a first class manner," he remarked to Principal Ferguson. "From every point of view that is a wise policy," he said.

In his address before the students, Mr. Stagg pointed out the need of perfect bodies not only in athletic games but in life's work. I am seventy-three years of age,' 'he said. "I play tennis, and often run a half mile with the boys. I attribute my good health to the fact that I have never taken poison into my system. I have never smoked, nor drunk liquor or tea or coffee. And this has stood me in good stead in crucial moments. It takes perfect control over nerves when a pitcher has three men on bases. To walk the batter would give a run to the opposing team, and lose the ball game. I was in that position many times and I learned the value of having perfect control over my nerves."

At the end of the address Oliver Granucci led the students in giving "Six Big Rahs" for Coach Stagg.

INTERESTING NEWS OF THE BAND BOYS

The Daly City Band took part in the parade and celebration at the Druids Anniversary on Sunday and received many favorable comments for the fine showing.

The band will provide a concert at the Memorial Day celebration at the City Park next Thursday.

George Brenner, band master, has prepared the following program for this occasion: March, "Stars and Stripes Forever," Sousa; selection, "Morning, Noon and Night in Vienna," Suppe; "The American Patrol," Meecham; march, "The Garland Entree," Karl King; "The Star Spangled Banner."

The band boys are endeavoring to stage a real circus in early September under a huge canvas top. This will provide three hours of high class entertainment and feature a number of fine circus, vaudeville, athletic and animal acts, the performance concluding with a huge pageant of all nations. The proceeds from this affair will be donated to charity and the band fund. Watch for later news.

SEVENTEENTH DEPICTS IN PLAY PAN AMERICAN

Colorful Presentation Given By Forty-Two Units In San Mateo County

Pan American was depicted colorfully at the rendezvous held Friday of last week by approximately 400 members of Seventeenth District, California Congress of Parents and Teachers, representing 42 units scattered throughout San Mateo County, when they met in the auditorium of the junior college, gaily decorated with Pan American flags by the San Mateo Junior College Mothers' Club. This annual play day provided much fun and social contact and materially increased the student aid fund. It was under the direction of the department of extension, Mrs. R. L. Holder, director; Fathers' Councils, Dean C. S. Morris; Mrs. A. A. Guido, Mrs. W. W. Doolittle, Mrs. J. R. Spann and Mrs. I. H. Hedden.

To the stirring music provided by Burlingame High School Band, composed of boy and girl students attractively dressed in red and white uniforms, Mrs. R. D. Richards, incoming president, strikingly costumed as a "Californio" rancherio, and Mrs. J. J. Garland, retiring president attired as a senora with comb and mantilla, led the grand march, which turned out to be a gorgeous spectacle. Dr. Dafoe, impersonated by Mrs. Ray Boulton of Millbrae unit, with the "Quints" represented by Mrs. F. E. Huff, Mrs. Alfred Harris, Mrs. Max Hinrichs, Mrs. C. C. Brown, Mrs. Ward, nurses Miss Margery Phillips and Mrs. Ossie Pforsick, stepped along followed by Indians, cowboys, cowgirls, mandarines, Colonial blades and dames, super cooks, Dutch girls, midshipmen, paisonos, dons and donnas.

Luncheon was served cafeteria style, and splendidly cooked dishes were provided along with the traditional chile con carne and Boston baked. Loud speakers added to the occasion, being provided by the Associated Oil Company.

Mrs. Grace Douglas and Mrs. G. H. Converse did a lazybone skit which amused, and Mrs. S. E. Day, Mrs. M. F. Potter and Mrs. Lyle D. Wise of San Carlos unit, under the direction of Mrs. Sterling Price, drama chairman of the district, provided a mirth provoking comedy entitled "An Amateur Radio Hour."

Mrs. H. L. Rankin, incoming president of San Mateo Junior College Mothers Club, gave an original P. T. A. impersonation, creating much laughter. Blue Rythm Kings from Lawrence school furnished the music ing School, Burlingame, under the difor old fashioned waltzes and present day numbers. The following pupils of Miss Olga Ziceva pleased with unusual dance routines and costumes: Dorothy Skaggs, Paula-May Eder, Dorothy Eder, Patricia Lawler, Patty Thoma, Bettina Norberg, Ann Campbell and Sally McGrew.

"A Spring May Day," an operetta presented by the pupils from Pershrection of Mrs. Elsieann Irvin, assisted by Mrs. Ethel Huxtable and Miss Agnes B. O'Neil, was enthusiastically received. Charming and quaint were the costumes of May queen, flower gilrs, pages, dancers, vacation boys and girls. The wee fiddler, Jimmy MacFarland, received much applause for numbers rendered, and the owls, dog and jester, helped sing the tuneful spring melodies.
